

The Universities in Lebanon and the Arab World: Women, Visions, and Issues

Table of Contents

Introduction	Editors
Part One: Women in the Universities
Gender Discrimination in Universities in the Arab World	Fadia Hoteit and Rose Debbas (Lebanon)
Women, Higher Education and Society: A Study of the Situation in Saudi Arabia	Abubaker Bagader (Saudi Arabia)
Women Professors and their Cultural Role in the College of Letters, Lebanese University	Nuha Bayoumi (Lebanon)
The Participation of Female Students in Extra-Curricular Activities: A Study of the Situation in the University of the United Arab Emirates	Maitha al Shamsi (United Arab Emirates)
Part Two: The Curricula in our Universities
Information Science in Lebanon: Origins, Present Reality, and Future Prospects	Hassana Moheiddin (Lebanon)
The Relationship between the University and the State: The Case of the Lebanese University Institute of Social Studies	Hoda Rizk (Lebanon)
Ambiguous Beginnings: An Identity Crisis in Departments of English in Egypt	Hoda Sadda (Egypt)
Part Three: The University and the Job Market
University Alumnae and the Job Market in Lebanon	Susanne Abourjeily (Lebanon)

The Specialized Alumnae and the Curricula in the Public and Private Arts Institutes in Lebanon	Watfa' Hamadi Hashim (Lebanon)
Part Four: University Issues and Problems of Reform
University Training, Curricula, and the Role of the Professor: The Lebanese Model	George Nahas (Lebanon)
The Role of Arab Research Centers and Scholars in the Dialectic of Knowledge: The Mechanisms of Failure and the Future of Research in the Arab World	Abdel Jalil Tamimi (Tunisia)
Higher Education Reform in Morocco	Mouna Cherkaoui and Mohamed Berdouzi (Morocco)
Ibrahim Abu Lughod and Higher Education in Palestine: A National View	Najla Bashour (Lebanon)
Complaints and Demands, Commitment and Action A Round-Table Discussion among Members of the Lebanese Association of Women Researchers
Part Five: Points of View on the Future of Arab Universities
The Acquisition of Skills Necessary for the Twenty-First Century: The Greatest Challenge Facing Universities in the Arab World	Ramzi Salameh (Lebanon)
Culture, Society, Development and Arab University Education	Samir Makdisi (Lebanon)
The Reinvention of the University	Adnan al Amin (Lebanon)
The Universities Are No Longer Ivory Towers	Fazah al Khurafi (Kuwait)
The Universities in the Arab World as Instruments of Rescue	Laila Sharaf (Jordan)